A. Goal/s or objectives of the National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples Drug Strategy

- 1. What do you consider should be the main goal/s or objectives of the new Strategy?

B. Principles

The overarching approach of harm minimisation guides the National Drug Strategy 2010-2015 and is based on the three pillars of:

1. demand reduction to prevent the uptake and/or delay the onset of use of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs; reduce the harmful use of alcohol and the use of tobacco and other drugs in the community; and support people to recover from dependence and reintegrate with the community;
2. supply reduction to prevent, stop, disrupt or otherwise reduce the production and supply of illegal drugs; and control, manage and/or regulate the availability of legal drugs; and
3. harm reduction to reduce the adverse health, social and economic consequences of the use of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs.

Acknowledging these broad principles and also recognising the diversity of populations and locations of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander populations, the Intergovernmental Committee on Drugs NATSIPDS Working Group who has responsibility for developing the NATSIPDS has identified four additional principles that could potentially underpin this Strategy:

1. Holistic Approaches - Use of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs must be addressed as part of a comprehensive, holistic approach to health that includes physical, spiritual, cultural, emotional and social wellbeing, community development and capacity building.
2. Whole-of-government effort and partnerships - Whole-of-government effort and commitment, in partnership with community controlled services and other nongovernment organisations, is needed to implement, evaluate and continuously improve comprehensive approaches to reduce drug-related harm among Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.
3. Indigenous ownership of solutions - Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people must be centrally involved in planning, development and implementation of strategies to address the use of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs in their communities, and should have control over their own health, alcohol and other drug, and related services.
4. Resourcing on the basis of need - Resources to address the use of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs must be available on the basis of need, and at the level required to reduce the disproportionate levels of drug related harm experienced by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

1. Are these principles appropriate? (tick selected choice) Yes No

2. Why / Why Not?

3. Are there other principles that should underpin this Strategy?

C. Broad Priorities for the Strategy

The NATSIPDS Working Group has also identified what it sees as some of the key priorities, issues and specific population groups that could be discussed in the Strategy. These include:

- Broad social and structural determinants related to harmful substance use including whole of government matters such as intergenerational social disadvantage; employment and welfare dependence and social and economic participation (including education, employment);
- Local service delivery issues, including workforce issues such as the ability to attract and retain staff across the range of disciplines necessary to provide effective and sustainable interventions, particularly in remote areas;
- Supporting children, youth and women – including children exposed to alcohol and other drugs during pregnancy and early childhood; and
- Transference and poly-addiction (not only between substances, but other issues such as gambling).

1. Are there any other key priorities, issues and/or populations that should be included?

D. Actions, including reviewing the Complimentary Action Plan

It is important that any actions identified in the Strategy provide detailed guidance to governments, communities and service providers; clearly articulate the overarching objective and link strongly with the underpinning principles. It is also important that they are concrete and assessable through national performance indicators and milestones.

The NATSIPDS Working Group has agreed that a small number of Key Result Areas or priorities are needed to focus action on achieving results.

The Complimentary Action Plan (the CAP) identified six key result areas for targeted action, which might be useful to review in looking to the new Strategy:

1. Enhanced capacity of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander individuals, families and communities to address current and future issues in the use of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs and promote their own health and wellbeing.
2. Whole-of-government effort and commitment, in collaboration with community controlled services and other non-government organisations, to implement, evaluate and continuously improve comprehensive approaches to reduce drug-related harm among Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.
3. Substantially improved access for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples to the appropriate range of health and wellbeing services that play a role in addressing the use of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs.
4. A range of holistic approaches from prevention through to treatment and continuing care that is locally available and accessible.
5. Workforce initiatives to enhance the capacity of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community-controlled and mainstream organisations to provide quality services.
6. Sustainable partnerships among Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, government and non-government agencies in developing and managing research, monitoring, evaluation and dissemination of information.

1. Are the Key Result Areas of the CAP still the most important? (tick selected choice) Yes No

If not, what do you think the most important Key Result Areas should be?

E. Measuring Progress

Monitoring and reporting was identified as a weakness of the CAP, which can to an extent be addressed with effective performance measures and milestones.

As custodians of the National Drug Strategy, it is expected that IGCD will be responsible for the National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples' Drug Strategy and for providing updates to Ministers on progress against its actions. In order to gauge whether the Strategy is being effective and that progress towards the overall objectives is being made, it will be important to have clear indicators and milestones against the actions and priorities.

1. How often should progress be reported?

2. Thinking about the actions and priorities that are identified above, or that you have identified, what sort of indicators and milestones could be used to demonstrate progress?

F. Additional Comments

- 1. Are there any other issues you would like to raise that might be helpful in informing the development of the Strategy?
